PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Bonnie Forman-Franco

It's very hard to believe the first month of 2023 has flown by so quickly. Thankfully the weather has been very cooperative and has allowed many to be out photographing.

Our next club field trip is February 10 at Planting Fields. I'm hoping many of you plan on attending and supporting our field trip endeavors. Look for the upcoming announcements via email and our FB page. Debbie is open to any ideas and suggestions you might have for the club, so please feel free to share them with her.

Recently, I had the opportunity of photographing the new Grand Central Terminal via the LIRR. Great way too spend a few hours especially on a Sunday morning when there tends to be less people. While there, I had the pleasure of meeting the main architect for this project and who was very happy to discuss many of the details involved in construction for the past almost twenty years. In addition, there is an interesting photography exhibit at the Nassau Museum of Art in Roslyn. Once again, we met fellow photographers from the Fresh Meadows and Flushing Camera Clubs there. One never knows who you will meet while on an outing. A great time was had by all, and new contacts for future field trips made. Even though it's winter, and we haven't had much snow, there is still much to see and do in our local area.

Our next presenter is Lisa Langell on February 16 via zoom. You must pre-register for this program. Please let me know if you did not receive the pdf flyer with the information necessary to register (photoladybon@gmail.com)

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Rob Kaplan for receiving a 27 at the PFLI competition in January. His Kestrel with cricket was outstanding. In addition, I would like to acknowledge our members who participate in club and/or PFLI competitions—your work is special. Regardless of scores, they are impressive! Keep up the great work, creativity and loving what you do. Please do not let any one else's opinion influence the love for your images. Thank you very much for sharing your work with the rest of us. Again, please feel free to post your images on our FB page and provide Sandy those that you would like to share on our website.

Stay well and be safe. See you all soon.

GREAT IMAGES; THE SECRET INGREDIENT

Great images have a special ingredient that goes beyond the rules of composition. Yes, they tell a story, sometimes they comply with the rule of thirds, they tend to be in focus, and they always have impact. But there is something else. Whether or not it can be taught is questionable, but perhaps it can be acquired through practice. The quintessential example of a photographer who understood this concept was Henri cartier Bresson. He called it the Decisive Moment. To him, composure of the image in the viewfinder was instinctive and he dismissed any rules of composition. Looking at the image of a man jumping a puddle, one of his most "Composition must be one of our constant preoccupations, but at the moment of shooting it can stem only from our intuition, for we are out to capture the fugitive moment, and all the interrelationships involved are on the move." successful, is a good example. It violates all the rules except for the two most important; it tells a story, and it has visual impact.

Bresson believed the decisive moment is instinctive and captured without cropping. "In the swirl of humanity and nature, all around us, there are occasional fleeting moments where moving objects align naturally in the frame."

The instinct for the decisive moment is evident in the work of a more contemporary American photographer. Joel Meyerowitz, who was additionally guided by an acute sensitivity to the human condition at the time and place of his photography. One of the many things that sets him apart is his preference for color, Not having formal training, no one told him that great street and fine art photography is done in Black and white. When asked about this he says, the world is in color isn't it?

Here too, the success of his images is largely due to split second recognition of subtle things. Looking at his images you will always see a look, body language or gesture that tells the story or adds to it. Any number of people could capture

The viewfinder

February 2023

an image at the same place and time, but rarely will there be the impact achieved by Meyerowitz. Interestingly, at a point late in his street photography career, he began to step back from the scene, and instead of isolating his subject the way we are taught, he began to cram as much as he could into his compositions. His instinct for finding the exact moment to release the shutter has resulted in hundreds of spectacular, storytelling images with an almost miraculous cohesion of the disparate elements of the composition.

For both of these great street photographers, the image is the result of an instant recognition of a moment in time that comes and goes and will never happen again.

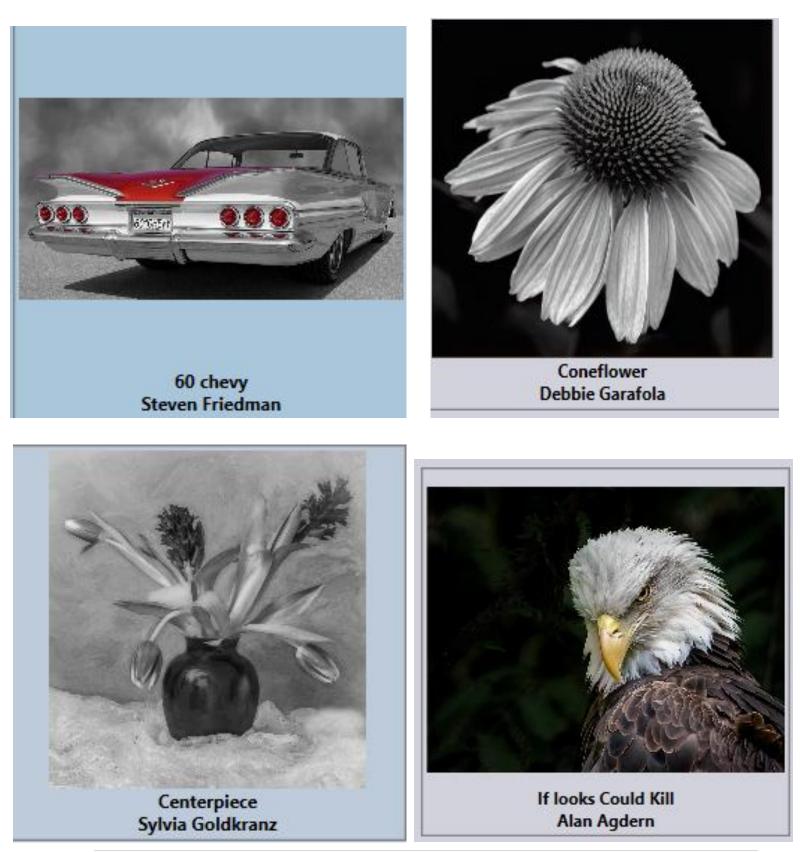

There is another form of photography that is quite different and one that Meyerowitz adopted later in his career when to paraphrase him, "there was a change in people on the street that made them less interesting to photograph. They were fearful, introverted and tuned into their cell phones more than each other" So, Meyerowitz plunged himself into large format landscape photography. In contrast to his Leica, large format requires a tripod and slow methodical framing of the subject, and contrary to the instantaneous framing of the image as practiced in his street photography, he was creating images from a previsualization of his subject matter. Different techniques, but in both cases the images are the product of the photographer's mind as much as his camera.

FIELD TRIPS

We have a field trip scheduled for February 10th for the Camellia House at Planting Fields Arboretum at 10am. They are located at 1395 Planting Fields Rd in Oyster Bay. We have an alternate date of February 15th in case of snow/hazardous driving conditions on the 10th. The Camellia Show is Saturday, February 18th, so by February 10th, there should be plenty of camellias for us to photograph.

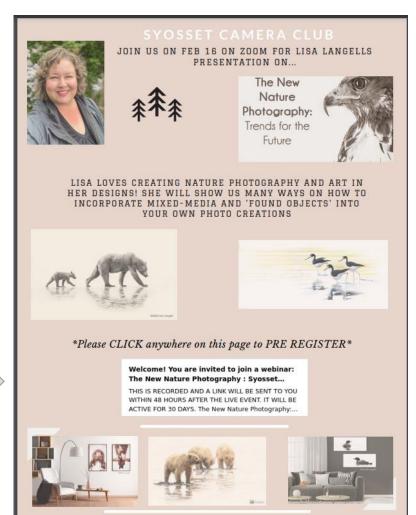

The Winter Photo Walk at Sagamore Hill on February 4th has been cancelled but will resume in the spring.

Melanie Grotas is a docent at the Nassau County Museum of Art and mentioned there is a photography exhibit going on until March 5th. You can get advanced ticket reservations on their website or see if your local public library has free passes available. If you have a library pass or are a member, you don't need to get an advance reservation.

A WORD OF CAUTION

Some Arca Swiss camera plates have a screw at each end to prevent the plate from sliding out of its mount if not tight. On some tripod heads such as the Sirui FD-01, That screw will prevent the plate from completely seating in the tripod head. There is no safeguard to prevent tightening the plate if it is not properly seated

I recently affixed said plate to my brand-new camera and as is my habit, gave it a little tug to make sure it was secure. I then started to adjust the tripod legs and was horrified to witness the camera landing on the floor from about 5 ft. Inspection revealed that the screws on each end of the plate were preventing it from seating in the mount. The plate was being held by friction alone and not seated in the grooves. After removing the screws, it works fine. Fortunately, the floor was carpeted.

The moral of this story is to check the fit of your arca Swiss by looking for a gap between the plate and mount.

FLARE ON PURPOSE

Flare is caused by light is scattered inside the body of a lens or in your eyeball. It appears in a photo as an artifact or contrast-reducing haze. Lens designers go to great lengths to eliminate flair through baffles and high-tech coatings. Some compositions can be enhanced with the introduction of a tasteful amount. You could use Photoshop's filter in the render menu, but then you would be a wimp and miss out on the satisfaction of doing it yourself.

Here's the old school way of producing artificial flare; in Photoshop:

- Create a new empty layer.
- Select a Brush with opacity 100%, Flow 100% and and 0% hardness. For the color, try color code #fd9424 or use the Eye Dropper Tool to select a color from the image. Make your brush large enough so you just you can get a "blob" the size of the sun. Since the Sun is 864,000 miles in diameter, I mean the size in your image.
- Change the blending mode of the layer to 'Screen'.
- Select the layer and resize to look realistic.
- Adjust the opacity of the layer as required.

MONITOR LIZARD

I took the MAGNETIC LASSO (settings: Feather 0; Width 3px; Contrast 58%; Frequency 57) I silhouetted the lizard. I copied the lizard and pasted him on a new Photoshop file and convert it to a black and white photo (grayscale) using Photoshop's conversion filter.

- 2- I went back to my original file and converted it to a black and white (grayscale) photo using Photoshop's conversion filter. Once it was converted I deleted the background and most of the lizard. I left some of the lizard so I could paste my black and white in the exact same location as it was originally. I then converted the photo to a duotone (Image/mode/duotone)
- 3- Once the duotone was made I saved it as a PSD file. Once it was saved I selected the complete photo and open a new blank Photoshop file (in RGB mode) and pasted the duotone in. I then added the black and white lizard. After the lizard was added I flattened the images and selected the white background using the Magic Wand. With the color picker boxes black on top and white on bottom I used the Gradient Tool and added the background.
- 4- I noticed that there was no "flash" in his eye so I set my brush to 5px and added it
