COMPETITION AND CRITIQUE

RULES AND PROCEDURES

GENERAL RULES

- Monthly competitions are via photo contest-pro and zoom. You may enter up to 3 images each in color and black and white categories and 2 each in the macro and creative categories. see details elsewhere in this handbook.
- There are nine regular competitions per year and an End of Year Competition.
- There are monthly PFLI competitions

You may send one Creative or Macro/Close-Up and one B&W to PFLIsubmit@hotmail.com for PFLI competition. Images must be scored or judged prior to submitting to PFLI and labeled with the format, c26-member name-x1-image title.jpg where x is your SCC group.

Your individual filename format is listed under your name in the SCC Directory which was sent to you separately.

The deadline for PFLI entries will be announced by the PFLI digital coordinator.

- Work that has scored less than 7 points may be edited and resubmitted for SCC competition.

SCC judged images that have been modified for PFLI competitions may be submitted with the same image name as the original. The timing of submission will be determined by the PFLI Digital Coordinator,

Ethical Rules

- Image enhancements must be from the member's creative input. It is permissible to use replacement features of the software if the user loads his or her own images into the software.
- Tools that control the histogram shape, color balance, sharpness or transform the geometry of the image are allowed. Tools that change the above parameters according to a preset algorithm are not allowed.
- Images entered into competition must be photographic, defined as one which is originated from the action of light in the maker's camera. AI generated images are therefore precluded regardless of how they are generated.
- Images produced by 'special effects' software including smartphone apps are not permitted unless the effect is not the major interest of the image.

You may not enter:

- The same image more than one competition
- The same image in more than one category,
- A previously entered color or toned image converted to B&W

Two images are 'identical' if the subject, pose, composition and lighting are substantially the same and would appear to be identical to the average viewer. This is a departure from previous policy which allowed visually similar images if they had a different file number.

ETHICAL STANDARDS

AND THE USE OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

GENERAL-

It is through competitions, critiques and lectures that we learn to master the tools of photography. In order to maintain the foundation of these endeavors, a set of ethical standards for use in competitions are herein set forth.

New features in post processing programs, utilize artificial intelligence capable of changing an image beyond that which the user could accomplish with reasonable effort. These features are counterproductive to our goal of promoting the mastery of photography. The use of filters that utilize images or textures not created by the member are therefore disallowed in competition.

New developments will continue to blur the boundary between what is considered a basic tool and what is off-limits. For now, we must rely on a few basic rules and the ethical behavior of individual members.

“Ethical behavior is doing the right thing when no one is watching.”

0.25:1
